play the Pittsburgs and Baltimores Win a Close Game from the Chicagos-Cin-cinnatis and Philadelphias Also Win, Enough games remain to be played to allow the Philadelphias to advance into the first division. While the New Yorks were losing to the Louisvilles yesterday the Quakers were trouncing the Clevelands, and the local players now hold sixth place by only 22 points. The Chicagos also lost and retain fifth place by 14 points. There was no change in the standing of the three leaders, as the Bostons outplayed the Pittsburgs, the Baltimores won a close game from the Chicagos, and the Cincinnatis had clear sailing with the Washingtons. The despised St. Louis players easily won the game from the crippled Brooklyns. The results:

LOUISVILLE, 14; NEW YORE, 9. An old-fashioned slugging match delighted 500 shivering cranks at the Polo Grounds yesterday. During nine innings a total of 36 safe hits were made by the Louisvilles and New Yorks, 19 of them being to the credit of the Kentuckians. Amos Rusie has not been so roughly treated in years, but he stuck to his job and did not run to cover, although Joyce was ready to put in another pitcher. Rusie was effective for four innings, while during the first five Cunningham was an easy mark for the New Yorks. Then these conditions were reversed. Rusie's delivery being pounded all over the field and Cunningham settling down. The Louisvilles played a fast, snappy fielding game, which cannot be said of the work of the locals. The New Yorks tried a new player named Reagan in right field. He comes from the Connecticut State League. He did not make a very favorable impression. Warner hurt his arm by bumping into the grand stand after catching a foul in the eighth, so Grady went behind the bat and Joyce covered first. Umpires Connolly and Hunt made no effort to stop kicking, the bulk of which was done by the visitors. The secore: Kentuckians. Amos Rusie has not been so

It is not often that the St. Louis players have such a snap as they did yesterday, when they heat the Brooklyns at Washington Park. Even Tim Hurst, manager of the tallenders, had to smile at the bungling errors of the home players. After Grim hurt his finger in the third inning Sheckard replaced Byan at third. Sheckard tried hard enough, but made a mess of the job. Sudhoff was invincible until after the St. Louis players had a safe lead, when the Brooklyns began to hit him more freely. The score:

Baseball Notes. L. W. H.—The New Yorks have played fourteen and the Brooklyns fitsen errories games this season. The second game of the Fordham vs. Suburban series of basefall will be played on the college cam-pus on Saturday.

According to the League schedule the Louisvilles are to play in this city to-morrow and in St. Louis on the following day. on the rollowing day.

In the series between the Baltimores and Clevelands, Hanlon's men won eight games and scored sixty-eight runs against six victories and fifty-seven runs. A. C. Weddis.—1. Rusis in 1889 and Nichols in 1890. 2. Bostons have been shut out in eight games. New Yorks, 135; Bostons, 134, including tie games.

The Englewood Field Club's second team has just finished a very successful season on the diamond, playing twenty-four games, and winning all but eight of them.

Elevengames were won and ninety-two runs score by the Chicegos, and the Washingtons won thre-games and soured forty-nine runs in the series be ween the two teams. Grady drove a terrific line foul into the left field seats at the Polo Grounds resterday and a jack tar, in trying to dodge the ball, fell head over heels. The sailor said afterward that he thought it was a Span-ish shell.

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET.

English Experts De Some Remarkable

Scoring Against New York. The big cricket game of the year began yes terday at Staten Island, where P. F. Warner's English experts were opposed in the fourth game of their tour by New York. It was ar ideal day for cricket, and those who journeyed down to Livingston were rew led by seeing some good bowling and splendid batting by the visitors. Aided by a wicket which en abled the bowlers to get on considerable work," J. L. Ainsworth and B. J. T. Bosanquet bowled in fine form for the Englishmen. and the New York batsmen were retired for the smallest score made against the visitors on their present trip.

To prove that the wicket was not so had as t looked, the Englishmen started in to score in manner altogether unlooked for. V. T. Hill. after giving a chance of stumping, proceeded to hit at everything, and he made 84 runs in fifty-five minutes. F. Mitchell previous to that was supposed to have scored in very fast time by making 66 in exactly one hour, but not to be outdone by either, E. H. Bray got his eye on the ball when the bowling had gone off somewhat and he put on 83 in fifty minutes. The best inning, however, was played by C. J. Burnup. He took few liberties with the bowl-

Burnup. He took few liberties with the bowling, and scored 61 in perfect style. He kept the ball on the ground, and some of his forward strokes were graceful and scientific, his correct placing of balls between fielders getting most of his runs.

The New York out-cricket was hardly so good as expected. C. P. Hurditch certainly had an off day, and his work behind the stumps was not at all up to the standard he has shown in local matches. There were few dropped catches, however, although F. W. T. Etiles made one rather bad muff of a "skier."

When Capt. Rokeby won the toss it was supposed that New York had gained a great advantage, and a good score was confidently expected. M. R. Cobb and C. H. Chrke made a very good start, and put on 17 before a wicket very good start, and put on 17 before a wicket fell. After that no one could do anything against the bowling of Ainsworth and Bosan-quet, and the wickets went down in prompt against the bowling of Ainsworth and Bosanquet, and the wickets went down in prompt sequence.

The batsmen tried hard enough to keep up their wickets and at one time ten maiden overs were sent down in succession. J. F. Curran was at the wickets twenty minutes without scoring. C. P. Hurditch took forty minutes to make i runs and Lohmann was in for twenty-five minutes for 10. The inning was all over in an hour and a quarter for a total of 49.

The English inning was started before 1 o'clock, C. O. H. Sewell and P. F. Warner being intrusted with the run-getting against the attack of M. R. Cobb and F. F. Kelly. The runs came surely if slowly, and 30 went up on the builetins after twenty-five minutes play. Kelly then got in his fine work on the wicket of Sewell and the first wicket was down for 31.

An adjournment was then taken for luncheon, after which A. Warner joined his brother. Their partnership produced 14 runs, the English captain being bowled by Cobb with his score at 22. while A. Warner went out 1. b. w. to Kelly without the addition of another run. Frank Mitchell and C. J. Burnup then go' together, and some very lively cricket resulted. Mitchell took kindly to the delivery of Kelly, and, in addition to making a succession of boundaries of the ground for the biggest hit of the match, which yielded 6. With the total at 36, C. H. Clarke took the ball in place of Kelly, but his first over brought up the century on a leg hit by Burnup. Mitchell gave a chance of stumping with his score at 45, but Hurditch, the home team's wicket keeper, missed it. With 150 on the board, Mitchell drove Clarke over the fence for 6. This was productive of a double change in the bowling, Lohmann relieving Cobb, while kelly went on again in place of Clarke. Lohmann did the trick, for, with the total at 170.

for 6. This was productive of a double change in the bowling, Lohmann relieving Cobb, while Kelly went on again in place of Clarke. Lohmann did the trick for, with the total at 170, Mitchell was bowled by the professiona. For a hard hit inning of 66, in which there were two sixes and twelve fours.

Y. T. Hill was next, and he gave a chance of stumping before he scored. He then went in for tall hitting, and off one over from Lohmann he scored 16 runs, one ball going out of the grounds for 6. Burnup was more careful in his play, and he contented himself with keeping the ball on the ground while Hill did the lofty hitting. The 200 was soon up, both men playing good cricket and losing no opportunity of scoring. With the total at 233 a fine catch by Bonner in the long field proved fatal to Burnup, who had played a splendid inning of 61.

B. J. T. Bosanguet then assumed the defensive, Cobb and Kelly having charge of the attack again. Hill, however, continued to hit with great freedom, and he made one immensed rive off Cobb, which he followed up by several fours. Two hundred and fifty went up before the newcomer got his leg in front of a straight ball from Cobb, and the bulletin showed 262-47.

G. E. Winter followed, and he saw Hill get in some more big hits before the latter was bowled by Clarke after being missed badly by Stiles at mid-off. He had scored 84 in fifty-five minutes by some of the hardest hitting ever witnessed on the ground, his inning including four sizes and eleven fours. E. H. Bray followed the hardhitting example of Hill and Mitchell, and runs again began to come apace. The pair hit at everything, and 300 was soon on the board. The bowling was now completely corralled and both batsmen scored freely and well, 350 going up in short order. Not until the total had reached 386 was a separation effected, Winter being then caught at mid-off by Wright off Kelly for 28.

R. Berens tollowed and the pair brought up the fourth century. With the total at 419 Bray was bowled by Cobb for a fine inning of 83, whic

MERRY PRINCE RUNS AT GRAVESEND IN GOOD STYLE AND TIME

Olindo and Handcuff Also Reward Their Followers-Marsian, Merry Heart, and Charlie Rose Farnish Surprises-Manuel

Outsprints Some Smart Two-Year-Olds. Large fields were the order at Gravesend esterday and winners were very hard to find, the only pronounced favorites to pull through being Merry Prince in the second race and Olindo in the steeplechase. Of the three equal holces in the sixth race, Handcuff was probably the best backed, so that the talent left off on a much sounder basis than the previous Three of the other events went to long shots, and the racing throughout was more or ess of a lottery, as stake features and the 'class" supposed to go with them were conpleuously abrent. There was a nip of late October in the atmosphere, and it stirred the crowd into action, the majority who usually hug their seats being forced to move about on the lawn, where the sun could reach them. The card looked like such a good guessing medium that nearly 4,000 followers of the game made the trip from town, and although there were seven races they were run off so close to schedule time that all concerned were homeward bound pefore sunset.

An unwieldy field of fourteen turned out for the highweight handloap for all ages, which started the sport. Doggett on Buffoon and Burns on Imperator paid the penalty of try-ing to run through the barrier and were practically left. Lambent carried her top weight to the front, but it told on her in the stretch, and Marsian, coming through from seventh place, won driving by half a length. Momentum also closed fast and beat Lambent a head for the place.

The popular Belmont colors were carried to the front in the second race by the even-money favorite Merry Prince. He looked anything but a winner until the last furiong, where Burns rushed him through and won by a length and a half. Mount Washington oured the place by three lengths from Merlin. Meddlesome was the only withdrawal from the field of sixteen maiden two-year-olds sugaged in the third event. All got off well except Alice Nise, who broke at the rear of the bunch and chucked it up. Doggett brought Merry Heart through after two furlongs and won by a length and a half, the Burlington Route. Sister Fox and Lady Exile finishing heads apart. Sol, who finished fifth, and The Burlington Route were equal favorites, while burington Route were equal favorites, while the winner was at 12 to 1. The second half of this event, which was run as the sixth race, also attracted a field of fifteen. Handcuff, Winter and Rose O'Lee started equal favorites, and the first named won by a length from Favonius, who beat Tryan two lengths. Winter and Rose O'Lee finished fourth and fifth respectively.

The most interesting event of the day was the fourth race, a dash of five and a half furlongs for two-year-olds. So well were the seven starters matched that four were held at about the same price, with a slight tendency longs for two-year-olds. So well were the seven starters matched that four were held at about the same price, with a slight tendency in favor of The Kentuckian, piloted by Maher. The favorite made a gallant attempt to get away with the spoils, but Manuel and Himtine nailed him in the run home. Manuel winning by a head, with an equally narrow margin between Himtine and The Kentuckian. Spencer followed his hand in the fifth race with an unexpected win on Charlie Rose, who was quoted at 10 to 1. He led all the way and won by half a length.

There was nothing in the steeplechase to worry the favorite. Olindo, at any stage. Diver, fencing freely, like all the Hitcheock horses, showed the Way for a while, but Olindo soon disposed of him and won easily by a length from Governor Budd, who finished strongly and beat Diver fifteen lengths. El Cld was the only other survivor. Widower fell after one circuit, Equerry went down on the second round and Duke of Durham fell over him. Baby Bill ran out on the turn for home after jumping the course much better than heretofore. Summary:

It was the noney lost in promoting races that forced it into the hands of an assignee. It seems hardly possible, though, that such a club will be obliged to wind up its affairs without some magnate goto its assistance. The character the club was that of a sportsman of the first water. It was sport, pure sport, that it stood for during the two decades in which its name become known throughout the cycling world. It was the first club to promote professional races, and it may almost be said that it is the father of cycle racing in America. In the early eighties, when its first series of tournsments began, with the men using high wheels it induced a number of English riders to come over here to race. In those days Star Weber, Ralph Temple, George Hendee, Percy Stone and "Billy" Rowe were he stars of the American path, Hender being for a long time the undefeated champion, whom the Englishman came to meet. Hendee in his racing time was not only a crack sprinter, but a handsome fellow who was the particular idol of the women, as Jimmy Michael is to-day. When he was defeated by Billy "Rowe, women in the grand stand wept without attempting to conceal the fact. In was the active spirit of the club promoting hem, and they were highly successful. After Hendee was defeated in 1895 the interest in them lagged, and in 1896 the last one took place. They were always held on three days in September and were invariably favored with deal weather.

In 1890 the tournaments were resumed with

BUFFALO, Sept. 21.—At the post in the fourth race, at Fort Eric to-day, Prospero threw Jockey Forbes and steeped on his face, knocking out his teeth and cutting a great gash in his head. Smith was substituted and Prospero ran third. To-morrow is the closing day at Fort Eric. Summary:

First Race—Six furlongs—Col. Frank Waters, 27 (Songer), 3 to 1, won; Clay Pointer, 16 (Vittitoe), 8 to 1, second: Flo W., 98 (Hopkins), 10 to 1, third. Time, 1,16%. In 1850 the tournaments were resumed with the safety in use. Hendee, himself retired from active racing, took the place of Ducker as promoter. During the "Class B" days the diamond tournaments of the fall were famous, and the Springfield meet of each year eclipsed the National meet. A victory at one of these tournaments counted for more in glory than the winning of any race at the League meet. The races were always held at Hampden Park, which has had more records broken on it during its entire existence than any other in the country. It was paced races that brought the club to grief, combined with the first break in its luck of having the proverbial." Springfield weather." This year it essayed a meet in June, with a paced race between Linton and Titus as the chief feature. It was a cloudy, showery day, and the club had a heavy loss to pocket. This fall it decided not to hold a tournament, but to have a meet on Labor Day. This also was unsuccessful, and it proved to be the last straw. It is a sad history, and it seems to point out that the day for manatour clubs to promote races is past and that the sport is now run on a scale which had best be left to those who make a study and a business of it. second: Bob Leach, 91 (Tully), 4 to 1, third. One who has had some experience in training athletes speaking of Edwards, the century rider, and his condition, said: "Athletes are particularly liable to typhoid, and often it is brought on by too much rubbing and too little bathing. Trainers are afraid of having their men take baths, lest they become weakened by them or catcheold, and instead of baths they treat them to massage. By this course the impurities of the flesh are prevented from being properly thrown out by the pores. The saits of the perspiration are kneaded back into the skin and the germs of typhoid find breeding places. In many cases the mosta man in training gots is a cold shower bath, which closes the pores instead of opening them. What a man working as Edwards did should have is a Russian bath occasionally and less rubbing. In my estimation this rubbing business is largely overdone. It has brought more than one man to his bed with typhoid." C. Hopper, Covington, Ky.; W. Schulte, Louisville Jockey Club; L. P. Tarlton, Latonia; Bobert Aull, St Louis; J. W. Russworm, Tennessee Breeders' As sociation: M. V. McFarland, New Memphis Jocket Club: S. M. Apperson, Little Bock; A. S. Labold, Latonia Jockey Club; J. M. Huger, New Orleans; E. Palmer, Detroit, and Hugh E. Keough, Harlem, Unicaso. Chicago.

S. R. Montgomery of Memphis was elected President, Robert Aull of St. Louis Vice-President, O. L. Bradley of Lexington Treasurer, and E. C. Hopper of Covington Secretary. Chicago was decided upon as the next place of meeting on the third Wednesday of September, It was decided that a trainer's contingent It was decided that a trainer's contingent interest in winning does not constitute ownership. All entries must be in name of persons owning the horse under penalty of fine, suspension, and forfeiture of winnings. The Secretary of each club must collect jockeys' fees from owners before the race. Entrance and declaration fees must be paid even if horse does not start. All the horses belonging to an owner convicted of a turf fraud must be ruled off. Two or more horses controlled by the same trainer must be coupled in betting. The foreign book was effectually barred from the tracks by miking the rule adopted against it last year a part of the constitution.

"The speed that melts," was illustrated by way of rather a clever joke on a corpulent and opulent member of an uptown club a couple of days ago. The victim is one who does not pretend to be a scorcher. The scales show a double-century record when he stands on them, and he knows better. He does think, though, that he can ride fast for a man of his build, and is fond of telling in the club cafe how he went to such a pince in a certain time. schedule for local players this winter will be:

There is somewhat in the records of the There is somewhat in the records of the track owners and promoters this year that should "give pause" to the racing rach before they decide to leave the League fold and trust themselves to the mercies of the mercenary ones who invite them into their managing parlors. The official reports show that most of the tracks and the promoting associations have been suspended because they have laded to pay their monetary obligations. Serinters and racing men are itching for the good cash promised them so bountfully in the spring. The mistakes of the Racing Board were never like this. The men might not always have received the best judgment on their cases, but it it is the same board that is now exercising its authority in their interests and protecting them from further loss at the hands of those who have failed to settle by putting them under ban. The situation suggests very strongly that the lineing leard does look after riders interests and that others do not. It is worth while for the men to reflect carefully before witherswing from under the wing of the League. A number of racing men, and prominent ones, are anxious to form an organization of their own as was told in The Sun some time ago. It has been suggested that a meeting be held, and a certain leader in the sport has agreed to arrange for one, but no date nor place has yet been determined upon.

Under the magnetism of President Potter's Under the magnetism of President Potter's cratory the Massachusetts State Division has swung around in favor of a bievele bagging bill. The last one introduced in the Legispture of the old Bay State was deteated through the efforts of the Chief Consul of the division. At the annual meeting of the State Board of Officers last week the tonic was taken up and President Potter, who was present as a guest was invited to speak. He reclude the history of the Armstrong Baggage bill in New York, and his narrative was so convincing that the Board of Officers without a dissenting voice passed a resolution for the appointment of a committee to work for the election of Senators and Representatives who would favor a bill compelling railroads to curry bieveles tree. It was a signal vindication of Potter's attitude on this question and a complete turnabout for the division.

Anaconda and Eagle Flanagan Shine at

Terre Haute. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 21 -The 2:05 page was the sensation to-day. A great deal of money went into the pool box at $25 for Frank Bogash, $18 for Directly, $10 for Anaconda and $18 for the fleid, the friends of Emery's Cleveland horse Ananias buying the field freely. Bumps won the first two heats with field horses nearest to him. The betting horsemen did not hedge, and after the first heat there was absolutely no betting. In the first mile the first half was in 1.02% and in the second 1:01%. In the third heat Bumps led at the half in 1:02, with Directly at his wheel, where he remained until well along in the stretch, when he passed Bumps, and was half a length in front at the wire. It was the fourth heat that startled the 4,000 persons present when Anaconda went half a dozen lengths in front of the bunch, and was that far ahead at the quarter in 0:30%. At the half in 1:02 Directly was closing up but half in 1:02 Directly was closing up but the others were far back. Directly was second, three lengths back, when Anaconda won. Anaconda and Directly were side by side through most of the slow fifth mile, the former winning by half a length. The ruling out of all except heat winners left the finishing heat to three, and Anaconda had no trouble in capturing it.

Eagle Flanagan, the favorite, won easily in the 2:10 trot, notwithstanding they were the three fasteat heats of the year in a race, lowering his record from 2:0.4a to 2:074. Woodford C., the winner of the 2:10 trot, was not driven out in any of the three heats.

A Lively Spill at the Mineola Fair. MINEOLA, L. L. Sept. 21.-There were three interesting harness events on the card at the Fair Grounds to-day and they were witnessed by fully 10,000 persons. There was one accident and it may result in the death of on horse. It occurred as the horses were coming down the stretch to score in the third heat o the three-minute class. Wiltona, driven by Frederick Schelley, was No. 3 and Nellie M driven by her owner, W. K. Moore, was No. 4. Just as the field was approaching the wire there was a crash and the two drivers were thrown out of their sulkies on their heads. Wiltona circled around the halfmile track, the sulky bobbing at her heels, while Nellie M. tried to follow. After Nellie M. turned the first turn in the track she commenced to kick and cut her legs badly under the left flank, besides severing a tendon in the fettlock joint of her off hind foot. She was caught on the backstretch and led imping to the stable. Several veterinary surgeons were summoned, and they expressed a belief that the horse might be saved. Wittona was caught through a ruse of Starting Judge Walker. As she came down the track he rang the bell, and the mare slowed down and ran into the arms of a hostler. She was uninjured with the exception of a few scratches and started in the next heat. Summary:
